My dear Mr Jerman

Many thanks for your kind letter and the cheque, which reached me safely. I did not answer by return of post, because I wished to enclose the certificate. Today my son has been to the Consulate; but Mr Macpherson was not at the office. Tomorrow he will repeat the visit, when I hope to obtain the signature, and will forward this immediately.

I am sorry to hear that you are still delicate, you must take great care of yourself, and make every effort to avoid sedentary occupations. Change of air, freshness, and exercise, are the best medicines.

Thank God, I am somewhat better, but terribly nervous, as you will perceive by my hand writing.

The miniature will be copied by my dear and charming grand daughter Helena Brookmann, now seventeen years of age. It will not be a perfect work of art; but interesting as painted by one so young and the neice of Keats

Many many thanks for your promised work, which I have no doubt will be warmly received by all the lovers of Keats in England and America.

In my next I will tell you the address where to send the spectacles

With kindest remembrances to all, believe me to remain

Yours very sincerely

Fanny Keats de Llanos
